Hyland Mather is originally from Denver, Colorado but his art exhibitions have taken him around the world. He is known as an assemblage artist, creating pieces from found and discarded objects to help them regain purpose. When he is not traveling for his art, he lives and works in Amsterdam where he runs a gallery.

Jennifer Chaparro recently moved to Colorado from Florida. Following her Bachelor of Arts from UCLA, she spent 25 years working in corporate graphic design. After discovering her passion and talent for chalk art in 2004, she decided to start her own business, Amazing Street Painting. While her pieces explore many different styles, her business focuses on 3D anamorphic art.

Koko Bayer was born in France and raised in Colorado, currently residing in Denver. Her work focuses on outdoor installations where her goal is to “adorn, engage, and educate.” In May of 2020 she began Project Spread Hope in response to the COVID-19 crisis as a reminder of the power of hope. Since then, she has installed hundreds of “Hope Hearts” throughout Colorado and beyond.

Liz Maher—Artist Liz Maher is a Boulder based fine artist who also works as an Art Therapist. When she’s not busy with her private practice, she creates custom murals. One of her recent murals, “Deeper than Demographics: Self in Community,” can be found in the Smith Building of the University of Colorado Boulder. With this project, Liz used her experience as an Art Therapist to create a piece that illustrates students’ reflections on diversity, inclusion, and identity. Liz is currently developing Art Therapy programming for inmates at Sterling Correctional Facility.

Lauren Napolitano is originally from California and currently resides in Austin, Texas. While she started out working with graffiti, she currently moves between illustration, tattoo, mural, and ceramic work. She is influenced by her Mexican heritage and folk art which is exemplified by the patterns and symmetry found in her work.

#6--MJ Lindo-Lawyer

MJ Lindo-Lawyer is a California based fine artist working primarily with oil paint. She is self-taught and has been painting for 15 years. MJ describes herself as a storyteller and enjoys creating “whimsical alternative universes.” Her visual stories are rooted in her life, the experiences of other women, and the daily existence of multi-cultural women. She frequently collaborates with her husband, Joshua Lawyer, and together they paint murals in the Northern California area. The model, Widny Bazile, is originally from Haiti and is currently based in Los Angeles.

Tony Zellaha is a Colorado native with a BFA from Colorado State University. His current focus is on paintings, illustrations, and chalk art. Tony’s works are influenced by the relationships between humans and nature, with animals and flora frequently taking center stage in his pieces. His work can be found from electric boxes to businesses around Boulder and Denver.

Danielle SeeWalker is Hunkpapha Lakhota and a member of the Standing Rock Sioux Tribe in North Dakota. She is a full-time artist, activist, writer and mom who resides in Denver, CO. Her work incorporates traditional Native American materials, scenes and messaging and pays homage to her identity as a Lakhota woman. She reflects her passion to represent the "contemporary Native American while still acknowledging historical events." https://www.seewalker.com/
Kat Lam (they/them) is an Asian American illustrator who was born in Maryland to Hong Kong immigrants. They currently work as a freelance Creative/Art Director in New York City, though their work has taken them from Colombia to Australia. Kat finds inspiration in mystery and emotions and focuses on creating spaces that mirror our psychological state. http://www.lamkat.com/
